NEWS ON THE BLOCK

After 14 years of Lornham, we've seen first-hand how block management has evolved — from a service focused mainly on day-to-day oversight to one that requires long-term planning, governance and proactive stewardship of residential assets.

In our latest article for News on the Block, we reflect on how expectations have changed, particularly in Prime Central London, and why good management is increasingly recognised as an essential part of protecting long-term property value.
